This team used their creativity to create two contrasting perspectives in the fine arts challenge. One was of a group of friends and they made their way through a real-life board game, the other perspective showed a friend who was feeling left out from the group. As the story progresses, the team's game gizmo, a spinner with one team member as the pointer, tries to convince the sad character to abandon her friends, but she perseveres and ends up saving the day! The use of a unique game gizmo and a moral - that we can use kindness to make sure our friends feel accepted and included - brought the show together in a heartwarming way.

This Renaissance Award goes to a team with a unique engineering, design, and excellent execution. The team showed outstanding precision in operating their bicycle pump with air compression to launch an aircraft with a payload that effectively hit high value spots in the target area. With unique ingenuity, they used magnets to release their payload impressing the appraisers. We like to present reDI 4 reAction with the Renaissance Award.
